March 14, 2014 | PRESS RELEASES

Buffalo, N.Y. -- Lippes Mathias Wexler Friedman LLP Managing Partner Scott E. Friedman has a passion for family business. It is a passion he has harnessed and built into both a strong portion of his legal practice as well as a consulting firm, Next-Gen Advisors.

Mr. Friedman has also authored five books related to the ownership of a family business. His most recent title, Family Business and Positive Psychology, was featured in the February 2014 issue of Buffalo Spree Magazine.

The profile described the book as a, "must-have reference for business owners of any type, family or otherwise."

In addition to his work in the area of family business, Mr. Friedman handles a variety of business transactions, including assisting numerous medical device, pharmaceutical, technology, and health care startup companies—diligently and strategically working to position companies in the best possible position for growth and financial success.

Mr. Friedman is the author of seven books in total, all of which can be found on his Amazon Author Page.
